I. INTRODUCTION

Dr. Mavis P. Kelsey has made outstanding contributions to medicine and his community. His dedication and efforts to establish a clinic providing comprehensive health care are clearly reflected in his collection. The documents trace the momentous growth of the Kelsey-Seybold Clinic. The collection, for the most part, consists of correspondence, reports, office files, government contracts, legal agreements, accounting records and a large set of medical reprints.

Aspects of his education, career and personal life are also documented. A unique highlight of the collection is his materials on military medicine. Dr. Kelsey saved numerous clippings, reports, and photographs from World War II and his assignment in Alaska.

In 1986, Dr. Kelsey donated his papers to the Harris County Medical Archive. This collection is open to researchers. There are however folders where restrictions may apply. Accommodations to use these documents can be arranged with prior approval.

II. BIOGRAPHY

Dr. Mavis Parrott Kelsey, who was founder and senior partner of the Kelsey-Seybold Clinic, P.A. of Houston, was born in Deport, Texas on October 7, 1912. In 1932 he received his Bachelor of Science degree from Texas A&M College. Mavis Kelsey was inspired by his grandfather, Dr. Joseph Benson Kelsey, a country doctor. He attended medical school at the University of Texas Medical Branch at Galveston receiving his Doctor of Medicine degree in 1936. Dr. Kelsey then served a rotating internship at New York City's Bellevue Hospital. Upon completion of his internship he returned to the University of Texas Medical Branch at Galveston to work for one year as an Instructor in Pathology. From 1938 to 1939 he served on the Junior staff of Scott and White Clinic in Temple, Texas.

On September 17, 1939, Dr. Mavis P. Kelsey married Mary Randolph Wilson. In that same year he accepted a three year fellowship in internal medicine at the world renowned Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minnesota. Their first son, John Wilson Kelsey was born on March 29, 1941. While at the Mayo Clinic Dr. Kelsey strengthened his friendship with fellow Texan and future partner, Dr. William Dempsey Seybold. For a time both families shared a fourplex apartment. The Kelsey's second son, Cooke Wilson Kelsey was born on October 10, 1942 in Galveston, Texas while Dr. Kelsey was on duty with the 11th Airforce in Alaska.

Dr. Kelsey's medical training at the Mayo Clinic was interrupted by the United States participation in the Pacific arena during World War II. He served in the U.S. Army Air Force, Medical Corps from 1941-1945. His assignments included Certified Flight Surgeon's rating; Surgeon of the 11th Fighter Command in Alaska, 1942-1943; Editor-in-Chief of the Air Surgeon's Bulletin. Dr. Kelsey attained the rank of Lieutenant Colonel and was awarded the Legion of Merit in 1945.

The Kelsey's were blessed with two more sons, Thomas Randolph Kelsey born on June 14, 1944 in Dayton, Ohio where Dr. Kelsey was stationed at the Aero Medical Research Laboratory, Wright Field Air Force Base at the Aero Medical Laboratory Dr. Kelsey was, among other duties, editor of The Air Surgeon's Bulletin, the Air Force Medical Journal and Mavis Parrott Kelsey, Jr. on July 16 of 1946 in Rochester, Minnesota.

Dr. Kelsey completed his medical training at the Mayo Clinic receiving a Masters of Science degree in Internal Medicine from the University of Minnesota, Mayo Foundation in 1947. He was appointed to the Mayo Clinic Staff as an Instructor in Medicine of the Mayo Foundation in the University of Minnesota. The Kelseys purchased a house in Rochester and made plans to make Minnesota their home.

In the summer of 1948, after much thought and many lengthy conversations with Mayo colleagues, patients and associates throughout Texas concerning the prospects for practice, the Kelsey's decided to return to their native Texas. Dr. Kelsey brought with him his young family and his dream of one day establishing a clinic. They arrived on January 15, 1949 in Houston.

Dr. Kelsey leased office space in the new Hermann Professional building. His practice was in the field of internal medicine with an emphasis on endocrinology. Unfortunately, with building construction running behind schedule the office was not ready for use. Dr. E.W. Bertner and Dr. George Waldron each generously offered free office space. Dr. Kelsey divided his time between the two offices for nearly four months. In May of 1949 he moved to his new office on the fourteenth floor.

In 1950 Dr. Kelsey encouraged Drs. Leary and Seybold to reconsider the prospect of establishing a clinic in Houston. Dr. William V. Leary had joined the staff of the Mayo Clinic in the section of chest diseases. Dr. Seybold had joined the Mayo staff in the department of surgery. The three doctors had previously discussed the idea while at the Mayo Clinic.

Dr. William D. Seybold, his wife and three young children moved to Houston in October of 1950. He was a freshman medical student at the University of Texas Medical Branch at Galveston when he first became acquainted with Dr. Kelsey. After receiving his Doctor of Medicine degree in 1938, he continued to study and work at the Mayo Clinic.

Dr. William V. Leary of Owatonna, Minnesota, also Mayo-trained, and his family relocated to Houston in January of 1951. The Kelsey and Leary friendship was established in 1939 at the Mayo Clinic. Together the three Mayo-trained physicians founded the Kelsey-Leary-Seybold Clinic. The Clinic first resided on the fourteenth and eighth floors of the Hermann

Professional Building.

After two years, Dr. Seybold withdrew from the group. Other members of the Kelsey-Leary Clinic were Dr. John R. Kelsey, Jr., Dr. Mavis Kelsey's brother from the Mayo Clinic and Dr. Albert O. Owens, psychiatrist from the Menninger Clinic. Dr. Seybold rejoined the Kelsey-Leary Clinic in 1961, serving as Chief of the General and Thoracic Surgery Department. The physicians continued to practice together as the Kelsey-Leary-Seybold Clinic up until 1965. At which time Dr. Leary resigned and joined the M.D. Anderson Hospital Staff. Subsequently, the Clinic was renamed the KelseySeybold Clinic.

Through the years the Clinic has changed its location, expanded its services, established satellite clinics, operated branches through the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, headed programs for the armed services and has opened the innovative Fitness Center.

In May of 1979, the partnership was converted to a Professional Association. The Kelsey-Seybold, P.A., also organized by the physician staff of the clinic were the Clinic Drugs, Inc., Kelsey-Seybold Leasehold, Medical Equipment Co., Inc. and Professional Supply Company, Inc.

The Kelsey-Seybold Foundation is a chartered, charitable foundation. The Foundation fosters the advancement of medicine by sponsoring medical research and education, especially cancer resaerch and child care.

The Kelsey-Seybold Clinic provides a diversity of services ranging from specialized, in depth treatment, comprehensive fitness health maintenance programs and the promotion of scientific research.

At the Kelsey-Seybold Clinic, Dr. Kelsey not only actively practiced medicine but was the Chief of the Department of Occupational Medicine, directed a number of medical contracts for NASA and the U.S. Navy and advised the Kelsey-Seybold Foundation.

In addition to his clinic practice, Dr. Kelsey held many teaching and administrative posts. Among them were: Instructor of Medicine, Mayo Foundation in the University of Minnesota; Acting Dean, the University of Texas Postgraduate School of Medicine; Clinical Professor of Medicine, University of Texas School of Biomedical Sciences; Associate Clinical Professor of Medicine, Baylor College of Medicine. Dr. Kelsey also served on the staff of St. Luke's Hospital (Consulting Staff and Vice Chief of Staff), Methodist Hospital and M.D. Anderson Hospital for Cancer Research. Dr. Kelsey also acted as Medical Advisor for many corporations including the Pennzoil Corporation, Roy M. Huffington, Inc. and United Energy Resources.

Over the years Dr. Kelsey has been an active member in many professional associations and organizations. They include: Alpha Omega Alpha, Alpha Kappa Kappa, Sigma Xi, he was elected to the Philosophical Society of Texas, Fellowship in the American College of Physicians, Aerospace Medical Association, American Thyroid Association, Harris County Medical Association, Texas Medical Association, The Endocrine Society, American Medical Association, Mayo Alumni Association, American and Texas Diabetes & Endocrine Association, American Cancer Society (Board of Directors, Harris County Unit), Yearbook of Cancer (Editorial Consultant), Kelsey-Seybold Foundation member of the Board of Trustees and Grants Committee, Member of the President's Council for Texas A&M Medical College and the Sterling C. Evans Library, First City National Bank Medical Center (Board of Directors), Development Board of University of Texas Medical School-Galveston.

Dr. Kelsey's participation in civic and social organizations reflect his interest in the fine arts, history and genealogy and nature. He has devoted time and resources to the Houston Country Club, A&M Association of Former Students, Friends of the A&M University Library, University of Texas Health Science Center-Presidents Club, Allegro, UT Alumni Association, Texas Nurseryman's Association, Texas Society of the Sons of the American Revolution, ASIA Society, Friends of Bayou Bend, American Book Collector's Society, Beaumont Art Museum, Harris County Heritage Society, Southwestern Cattleman's Association, and the Houston Committee on Foreign Relations, a charter member of the American Historical Print Society. Dr. Kelsey and his wife, Mary have a great love for American Art and Americana. They have donated their collections to several museums and university libraries. The Mavis and Mary Kelsey Collection of Winslow Homer Prints is housed in the Museum of Fine Arts in Houston, Texas. Dr. Kelsey wrote the catalog for this Collection, named "Wilson Homer Graphics", which is an authoritative reference work used by Homer scholars nationwide. The United States Naval Academy in Annapolis, Maryland received their collection of Naval Prints. The Kelsey

Collection of Thomas Nast Illustrations was donated to Pepperdine University. The University of Houston was given a collection of wood engravings on Social Life and War. The Kelseys collection of the letters of John Quincy Adams was given to Bryan Mawr College. Dr. and Mrs. Kelsey gave to the Sterling C.- Evans Library of Texas A&M University their Collection of Americana. Several thousand books, art works and prints make up this outstanding collection. He and his wife have traveled extensively and studied their respective family histories. They have written six books of genealogy. Dr. Kelsey has been an active farmer and rancher for many years and has participated in a number of other business activities including oil exploration and apartment building. Since retiring, with his wife Mary he has devoted his time in writing genealogy; cataoging and writing about their extensive collection of historical and art prints, painting and rare books, investing and philanthropy. In 1985, Dr. Kelsey retired from the Kelsey-Seybold Clinic after thirty-seven years of practice in Houston. From his vision and with his determination, leadership and guidance the Kelsey-Seybold Clinic has developed into an institution of national and international recognition. Dr. Kelsey has had eighty one published medical articles. He continues to consult and raise funds for the Clinic and the Kelsey-Seybold Foundation.

III. ORGANIZATION

The Mavis P. Kelsey Collection arrived with some arrangement in place. Where possible the initial organization was retained and the original folder titles were used.

Reorganization was done to establish a logical system; arranged alphabetically and chronologically where applicable within the series and individual folders.

Select materials were identified for redistribution to the institutional collections of the Archive.

Two hundred and four photographs were removed and placed in the Historical Research Center Photograph Collection. A separate list of these photographs is available. Duplicate copies of material in the Collection or in existing institutional collections were discarded.

The Kelsey Collection is divided into eight series
